In our studies:

Religion:

Please continue practicing the list of prayers that I we say daily so that you can say them with yol. Although many children know them pretty well it is very important that they can recite them correct

Language Arts / Writing:

We continue working on our letters, Currently we are learning about the letter "M/m".

Also in language arts, we will continue working with the

Math:

We will continue with our work on counting objects and understanding the concept that the quantity remains the same regardless of arrangement. We will also identify and match numbers to quantities, as well as recognize numbers in the environment.

Reading:

As part of our "reading readiness" we continue adding to Unit 1 of "Happily Ever After". Following are just some of the general objectives for this program: print and book awareness, visual development, listening and speaking, vocabulary, comprehension.

"ME BAG" REPORT:

We have completed all the "Me Bag" presentations for each student. Thank You for all your work on these! Soon you will receive instructions on what we will be doing next for our family Project! I am very excited about this upcoming assignment!

Notes from the Teacher:

I have noticed this week that many students who had made huge improvements in writing their name, following directions and being good listeners have reverted to the previous way of doing things. This can make things very difficult for your child! Please have them continue forming the letters properly, repeatedly writing their name and listening to you read books aloud. It is extremely important that your child is listening and can answer your questions correctly about the story they just heard. I have students who have not completed a single "Reading Log" the first half of this year and others who have completed between 4 and 10 "Reading Log" sheets! Way to go Ladybugs!!!

Reminders:

- *Now that the weather is getting cooler (well, sort of) please be sure to include a school sweatshirt, fleece jacket or long sleeves at least. If a child does not have the proper jacket or sweatshirt they will not be allowed to participate in any outside activities.
 - *Please remember that every Friday we celebrate mass unless otherwise announced. Children may not wear shorts to mass. Girls must wear jumper and boys must wear long uniform pants with white polo.
